

ONE DAY SALMON RIVER

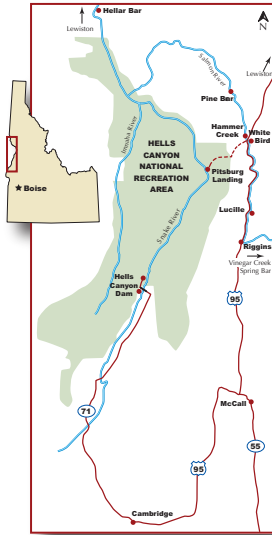

22 miles - whitewater

Join us in Riggins, the Whitewater Capital of Idaho. Ride the waves in Time Zone, Tight Squeeze, Trap Creek and Black Rock, just to name a few. If our self-bailing paddle and rowing rafts aren't exciting enough to suit your thrill level, hop into an inflatable kayak. The "pool and drop" Salmon River offers calm pools between rapids; a great time for photos or just lounging around. This one day whitewater adventure is perfect for groups, reunions, and parties, as well as adventurous individuals. Trips run almost everyday June - September, call for availability.

TWO DAYS - SALMON OVERNIGHTER

39 miles Vinegar Creek to Lucille Recreation Site

Add a new dimension to your whitewater adventure - like camping along the river on a beautiful sandy beach; enjoying a great steak dinner, Idaho garlic mashed potatoes, a garden salad, and Dutch oven treats (maybe even a s'more). Camaraderie around the campfire and falling asleep out under the open summer skies, it doesn't get much better. We raft 19 miles per day and camp near Spring Bar Campground. The first day is spent floating the more scenic upper section and the second day rafting the more challenging Riggins stretch where we run our 1-day adventures. Try your hand at the inflatable kayaks, join the crew in a paddle boat, or kick back on an oar-boat. The view and the ride are spectacular. We provide all the camping equipment (tents, mattresses, and freshly laundered sleeping bags) which makes it easy for you to just show up with your clothing. We take care of the rest. This trip meets in Riggins and ends in Riggins. Trips can be started most any time; call with your specific date.

SNAKE RIVER THROUGH HELLS CANYON 3-6 DAYS

34-79 miles

Where the Snake River heads north and forms the border between Idaho and Oregon is Hells Canyon, the deepest gorge in North America. The country is amazing. Rugged rock walls and grassy slopes rise from the water as you delve into the surging whitewater. Where boulders and rockslides have rolled into the river, we find the biggest rapids in the Pacific Northwest. Great fishing, rapids, wildlife, and hikes await you here. For complete information call, email, or visit our website. This is truly the trip of a lifetime.

HOW TO START PLANNING, IT'S EASY AS 1,2,3...

1. Call (800) 523-6502 anytime. We are happy to answer specific questions about all rafting and trip options.
2. Reserve your trip online at www.hellscanyonraft.com or call. Space is limited so make reservations early. We will hold a trip for 7 days with just a verbal commitment.
3. After your reservation is made, you will receive a confirmation package including a packing list, directions and release forms. We are also happy to help with any other travel arrangements you might need.

SALMON RIVER CANYONS

4-5 days, 56 - 68 miles

The Salmon River is the longest and largest river in the lower 48 states that is completely without dams. This is the last section of "The River of No Return" before it joins the Snake River on its journey to the Columbia and the Pacific Ocean. Along the way we float through different canyons named Green, Cougar, Snowhole, and Blue; hence the name, Salmon River Canyons.

Of all the different sections of the Salmon, these canyons offer the most idyllic rafting and camping conditions. Day time temperatures are between 85 - 100 degrees, and night time temps stay in the 70's. The water is warm and great for swimming. We camp on large pure white sand beaches. Along the way there's plenty of time for hiking, fishing, beach volleyball, or just relaxing with a good book. And of course there is the whitewater. Ranging from Class II - IV, it is a great river for first timers or experienced whitewater junkies. Needless to say they are lots of fun, perfect for paddle rafts and inflatable kayaks.

We'll visit rock paintings, called pictographs, pit house remains used by the Nez Perce, and stories of their struggle. There are also old mining sites worked by the Chinese during the late 1800's. Through hikes, stories, and interpretation we hope you'll gain an appreciation of these historic treasures.

This is a full service trip, and everything is included. Each day our gear boat travels ahead to set up camp and secure the best beaches. When we arrive in camp around 4:00, your tents are pitched, bags are up the bank, and the camp is all ready for you to settle in for the night. The guides set up and take down your tents, fill your wine glass, serve appetizers, make incredible meals, and do all the camp chores.

Trips begin and end in Lewiston, Idaho. Accommodations are provided the night before the trip. We have a pre-trip meeting around 7:00 PM to hand out river bags and answer any last minute questions. Early the next morning breakfast is provided at the hotel's restaurant.

This is a great trip for a family vacation, group charter, or corporate retreat. Ask about our private river trip; why not have the trip all to yourself? Fall chukar hunting and steelhead fishing is also available. Call or email for more information.
